A composite image featuring three parts. The top part is a close-up portrait of the woman from the chest up, showing her dark hair adorned with a gold and red jeweled headpiece, her face, and her upper body in profile. The bottom part consists of two smaller images: one on the left showing the woman from the waist up, and one on the right showing the lower half of her outfit, including the trousers and the hem of the dupatta. The background for the inset images is the same orange and gold patterned wall. The entire composite is framed by a decorative border at the top and bottom.
